"It was a very nice, very special, well-deserved tribute," he said.

Mayor Moody presented Allen with a plaque and honored him by proclaiming Saturday, Aug. 9, "James L. Allen Day" in Columbus.

Allen has been associated with the Fund since 1961 when he became a volunteer; he joined the professional staff in 1965. Since then he has served in a number of capacities for UNCF. He became associate national development director this year covering the Midwestern states and the southern states from Tennessee to Florida.

He was recipient of the Man of the Year Award of his college fraternity in 1964; he was the Man of the Year of the Frontiers International in 1967.

Allen expressed satisfaction with the testimonial. "I was impressed with the guests there—it was a good representation from across the city and outside the city."

WELFARE RECIPIENTS MUST REVEAL VALUE OF PROPERTY OWNED

WASHINGTON—Welfare recipients under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program, are in for a tough examination period. Under new regulations approved by U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr., the states will now set maximum levels for the amount of property these families may own and still qualify for public assistance.

The move, according to government officials, will save the nation about $20 million in welfare payments.

Under the new regulations, a family of four is allowed a $2,250 maximum worth of property and $1,200 for a car. The states are required to use the actual value of such property as cars, appliances, furniture and clothes, rather than the equity the family has in such possessions, in determining whether families meet the new standards.

Example: A $2,000 car on which a family paid down only $300, will be valued at the full $2,000. And if the value of the car is more than the allowed $1,200, the remaining amount will be subtracted (Continued on Page 2A)

Appointment Of Black At Bell Lab, Protested By Black Technicians

The recent appointment of a black personnel representative at Bell Laboratories was sharply criticized this week by a group of black technicians at the far E. Broad St. complex.

An Ad Hoc committee representing the "Black Community" at Bell Laboratories, 6200 F

Broad St., charged that Bell management "exhibited paternalism by unilaterally selecting Robert H. Williams for the personnel post without any input from the community."

Williams, in the new position, is a member of the Columbus Staff Operations Dept. He is responsible for coordination of Bell Labs Affirmative Act and equal employment opportunity program. He is also the administrator of special educational and training opportunities offered by Bell Laboratories.

In protesting his appointment, spokesmen for the Black community, Kwesi Adebisi, Larry Diggs, Ken Bennett and Phil Haynes, emphasized that the "purpose of our complaint is not intended to demean the character of Williams, but rather to clarify the degree to which he does or does not represent black people."

Bell Laboratories is the research and development unit of the Bell System. Its engineers and support personnel work closely with Western Electric at which Williams had been employed since 1970. However, he was not identified with the Black Community at Bell Labs, according to the Ad Hoc committee.

EYEWITNESS SAYS Money In Bosom Seen Safer Than Pocketbook In Church

By Emory Yawn
CLEVELAND BUREAU
Praise the Lord and pass the money - could very well have been the text of the sermon two armed robbers took last Sunday as they terrorized two churches.

"It is not safe on the street and it is not safe even in church, during or after services, was the conclusion of several victims of armed robbery at Our Redemption Baptist Church, 3617 E. 93 St., and Greater Canaan Baptist Church, 2156 E. 84 St.

Both churches were robbed about one hour apart. (Our Redemption at 6:45 p.m., and Greater Canaan at about 7:45 p.m.)

An eyewitness account of what happened at Greater Canaan Baptist Church, was given to this Call & Post reporter by Mrs. A. Maynard of E. Cleveland.

Mrs. Maynard said: "When I first drove up, there was a strange youth standing in front of the church and another was across the street, standing by a white car and talking to two girls of the church."

Mrs. Maynard said that a friend complimented her on her bag after she got out of the car. "The youth in front of the church looked at the bag and turned and looked at the youth across the street," she said.

Mrs. Maynard explained that no one became suspicious, even though the boys were casually dressed in t-shirts and blue jeans, because many times guest singers had appeared at the church informally dressed but had changed in the dressing room inside.

One of the men also carried a brown paper bag, she said, which she only opined after the incident was over, must have, carried the handguns.

Mrs. Maynard said that she was seated inside when one of the girls who had been talking to the youth outside sat down near her and began to mouth quietly, "there's going to be a robbery, there's going to be a robbery."

Continued, she turned to look just in time to see one youth shoot into the ceiling and shout, "this is a hold up, I'm doing the preaching now."

At this, Mrs. Maynard continued, she and a few others jumped onto the pulpit, went out the back door and ran hollering down the street. She said that they heard two more shots - three shots in all inside the church.

Inside, according to another victim, the robbers ordered the church's pastor, Reverend David Watts, to get the goods from the congregation which had been lined up against the wall, and put it into the paper bag. The thieves took money, watches, and credit cards. (Continued on Page 2A)

HELPED COLUMBUS SINGER Cannonball Adderly, Noted Jazz Artist, Dead At 46

More than 1800 persons, including many prominent entertainers and well wishers, attended the funeral rites for notable jazz great Julian (Cannonball) Adderly at Florida A&M University on Monday.

The 46 year old saxophonist died Friday from a cardiac arrest at St. Mary's Medical Center in Gary. He had been in a coma since entering that hospital on July 13, after suffering a massive stroke in a Gary cafe.

Adderly, a musician of nationwide acclaim, also made contributions to upcoming musical talent on the local scene. One of his most notable talent discoveries was Columbusite Nancy Wilson, a well known story throughout the entertainment business.

Though he played extensive gigs in such jazz capitals as Harlem, New Orleans and Chicago, Adderly has performed

He is said to have given Marr, who is George Kirby's musical director, a tempo secret when they played together in Florida after being discharged from the military services band, along with complimenting Bryant on his unusual saxophone tone technique. In the musical world, complimenting another artist who plays the same instrument is the sign of a great musician.

CALL-POST entertainment writer "Bubbles" Holloway, who booked a few gigs for Adderly, described the greatness of the Florida native while recalling an incident at the 502 Club several years ago. "He was telling the club's owner, Marty Meliman after a rainy weekend produced a low turnout 'Don't worry Marty, I'll stay over Monday night and play for free. I don't want to see anyone lose money on my engagements.'"

Kahiki Appeals Slated For Ex-Officers Morgan, Stout

The Civil Service Commission will hold separate appeal hearings Monday, Aug. 18, for the two police officers fired because of reported brutality tactics used in the "Kahiki Incident."

Robert Morgan is expected to go before the commission at 9:30 a.m. Infamously known as "Machine Gun Morgan," he was charged with striking Samuel Bryant with a nightstick at City Prison on May 31.

The hearing for Robert Stout is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Stout was charged with unlawful force by using a blackjack on Joanne Johnson and striking Samuel Bryant at City Prison.

Both were suspended without pay after the black community demanded an investigation of the incident. They were subsequently fired by Safety Dr. Bernard Chupka on July 9.

According to commission officials, a decision from the respective hearings should be reached shortly after deliberation of the facts and evidence involved in both appeals.

About 200 members of the Community Action for Police Equality Committee demonstrated in front of city hall last Thursday and demanded that Mayor Tom Moody reinstate both officers.

Kahiki Figure Charged In Kidnaping Escapade

Columbus police have filed warrants against Thomas Catron, 33, a complainant in the "Kahiki Incident," and companion Philip Hemphill, 18, for the kidnaping of a 22-year-old man on Saturday night.

Catron, 1084 Seymour Ave., who filed charges of police brutality with city and federal officials after he reportedly saw a man and woman being beaten by police in an alley near Grant Hospital, was previously being sought by police for failing to appear at his hearing for making a false report to police on June 7.

According to homicide detective Lt. Richard Hartman, Catron, who was wounded in the kidnaping escapade, will be transported to city when he is able to travel.

Catron, who was listed in satisfactory condition at Community Memorial Hospital in Marion, Ohio, walked away from the hospital last Tuesday night. He is reportedly armed and dangerous. A statewide alert has been undertaken to capture the escaped felon.

Hemphill, 1121 Peters Ave., was transferred to the city jail from Wyandot county jail on Tuesday afternoon.

Police reports stated that the kidnaping incident was sparked after Catron's wife, Alberta, 41, had left him about a week earlier, whereupon Catron went to Ross, a son-in-law of Mrs. Catron, to find out where she was.

Ross was forced at gunpoint by Catron to reveal that his mother was residing in New Bloomington in Marion County. He was then forced to enter the car with the two men who drive there, Hemphill was the reported gun wielder.

Upon finding Mrs. Catron, she and her daughter, Tammy, 9, were forced into the back seat of the car with Ross. Unbeknownst by Catron or Hemphill, the woman had a .25 caliber automatic concealed in her slacks.

As Catron drove to pick up his wife's car, his wife passed the gun to Ross, who had been handcuffed earlier while in Columbus.

Upon ordering Catron to stop the car, the gun accidentally discharged, wounding him in the right side of the neck. As Catron slumped in the seat, Ross began to struggle with him, thinking he was going after Hemphill's gun.

As the duo began to tussle, the gun misfired again, wounding Mrs. Catron in the left forearm. She was later treated and released at Community Memorial.

During the struggle, Hemphill bolted from the car and ran across a field. He was arrested several minutes later by Wyandot County sheriff's deputies.

The kidnaping charges against Catron will take precedence over the minor false report charge against him.

Catron had claimed that unknown persons fired two gunshots through his kitchen window. A police investigation revealed that Catron had asked a friend to fire shots into his house.

The complaint was made by Catron following a series of "misadventures" after the "Kahiki Incident" on May 30 in which Joanne Johnson Samuel Bryant and her brother, Jerome Johnson, were allegedly beaten by local police. Subsequently, Officers Robert Stout and Robert Morgan were fired.

U.S. JOB TRAINING CENTER TARGET OF RACISM PROBE BY OHIO STATE EEO UNIT

By JOHN B. COMBS

Acting on a complaint of the NAACP, an investigation of racial discrimination charges against the Southern Ohio Skill Center at Jackson, Ohio, has been launched by the State Equal Employment Office, The CALL & POST learned this week.

Paul Haggard, EEO director, confirmed Monday that the U.S. Government-financed Center and the Jackson City Board of Education, the prime sponsor of the training project, were being investigated for allegedly practicing employment discrimination against blacks.

Haggard, a former Cleveland City Councilman, said his office entered the case at the request of James W. Crump, President of District II and a member of the Executive Board of the NAACP.

Sawyer suggested that students should be granted the right to appeal, "because without it, students may be terminated at the will of the teacher and justice will never come of it," he said.

Crump told Krabach that he was "very pleased" that Burton Cooper from Personnel Division of your office is investigating the last case of termination of a black student. "However, he suggested that something was seriously wrong when out of the total school enrollment of 270, the usual number of blacks amount to four. He further reported that the Jackson Branch and the National NAACP Legal staff "are preparing to go into Federal Court seeking an injunction against any further funding of the Skill Center." Such action is pending the outcome of EEO and the Ohio Civil Rights Commission, he stated.

Crump was referring to the case of Virginia Harris of Jackson, who filed a hiring discrimination charge against the Skill Center. Such action is pending the outcome of EEO and the Ohio Civil Rights Commission, he stated.

Moody.

If the stay is granted by the 10th District Court, a motion to appeal Duncan's order will be filed with the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Hughes told THE CALL & POST Tuesday.

Duncan, in his Aug. 1 ruling, issued a preliminary injunction banning the city from using three of nine elements of an agility test in connection with the police recruitment process. He held that the 17 women and four men who flunked the test because of the 440 yard sprint must be reconsidered by the city for appointment to the training academy.

In a related matter, Hughes said he expects to make a decision Friday regarding Moody's request to determine whether the city can legally hire auxiliary police to supplement the dwindling police force.

Hughes said he did not think that the race question would be raised if auxiliary police are cleared for the hiring. He based this opinion on the fact that 20 or 25 per cent of the auxiliary police force are black, he said.

He also spoke optimistically over the outcome of his appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court. He said the city will try to get the stay order from one of the three judges of the court.

suffering severe chest pains Aug. 6 at this home, 1726 Devonshire Rd., Mrs. Patterson told THE CALL & POST.

"He is coming along very well and will probably be removed from intensive care sometime Tuesday," she said. However, she indicated that he will probably be hospitalized for a while.

Patterson was employed at the Defense Construction Supply Center, (DCSC) for many years. He retired in the spring of 1974 after suffering a series of heart attacks, Mrs. Patterson said.

Money In Bosom Safer...

"They were shooting into the air when they came out," said Mrs. Maynard. "There must have been a third person laying down in the car because it took off immediately once the two gunmen jumped in," she said.

Later, the police were given the license plate number and found that the auto had been reported stolen.

Mrs. Maynard, who lost only change that she had left behind in her purse when she ran, said that she had retained $200 that she kept in her bosom. Stating that she would rather take a chance on being fined by police than be caught again without a gun, Mrs. Maynard said that any thieves would be in for a surprise the next time they entered Greater Caneau. She said that the church could not afford to hire security guards. Victims described one hold-up man as dark brown skinned, braided hair, about 5'6" in height, about 145 lbs., medium built, clean faced, about 25 years old and wearing a blue t-shirt and blue jeans. The other suspect was described as light brown skinned, with short afro, about 5'8" in height, thin built (about 150 lbs.), clean faced, about 20 years old, with a silver front tooth, and wearing a red striped shirt and blue jeans.

The two youthful hold-up men waited until most of the congregation had left Our Redemption before entering just in time to catch Reverend John Aden and family with the day's receipts of about $500. The money had been donated by the 200 member congregation in celebration of the church's second anniversary.

Although Mrs. Aden allegedly gave up the money as ordered and Rev. Aden emptied his pockets without resisting, the gunmen ordered the family and three members that had stayed to disrobe and lay on the floor.

The crooks then began to kick the family members - some about the head and face.

Rev. Aden avers that he never saw the men before and wonders why his family was kicked and whether they knew that the collection would be larger than usual.

One son, Marc, 16, was also pistol whipped, when he looked up, and later required six stitches to close a facial wound. The other family members, including Gale, 23, Chrystal, 11, and Mrs. Hattie Dale Williams, who is the mother of Mrs. Aden, did not require treatment.

Reverend Aden, when asked what he would do to protect the church from future evil deeds, replied, "the only thing we can do is just hope and pray and go on." He admitted that the church might hire a security guard but did not know how much protection that would afford.

teacher with the Columbus Board of Education, were also declared eligible candidates for the school board.

Hamlar, board president, was unsure that he had a significant number of signatures on his petitions submitted to the Board of Elections on Aug. 6. A last minute effort on the part of concerned friends of Hamlar last week in circulating the petitions apparently saved him from losing his seat on the board.

Commenting on the last-ditch effort, Hamlar said, "It was a matter of nobody knowing what was needed and when it was a matter of not putting out the information on my part, but everyone I asked to do something did it."

Hamlar said the plans for his reelection will be better organized and that he will campaign hard because "I don't believe in going in half heartedly."

He continued, "I believe in taking the issues to the public - from then on, they can be the judges."

Welfare

from the family's total allotment.

In June, the judge temporarily blocked the regulations on the grounds that they "could cause tremendous harm and damage both to the states and (welfare) recipients."

However, after several hearings, Judge Hart ordered the new regulations, saying: "On balance, the court must hold that the regulations are not arbitrary and capricious."

The ruling came on a suit filed by the National Welfare Rights Organization, the State of Pennsylvania and 11 welfare and employment organizations from eight states.

The plaintiffs' attorneys contend that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), which administers the program, has exceeded the authority granted by Congress to set requirements the states must meet to get federal welfare grants.

They also contend that many recipients will face severe problems because many of them who have purchased items on credit may be temporarily out of work, and the items on credit would be counted against their allowable property value level before they could receive public assistance.

Appointment of Black

The committee concedes that Bell Labs interviewed several of its candidates for the post and that it was even offered to one of their members. The candidate, K. Machumu Bantale, however, rejected the post when he could not come to salary terms with management, they said.

Inasmuch as "at least 10" of their candidates had been interviewed for the position, Black Community members expressed the feeling that the post should have been offered to another of their members.

In light of this contention, they said that their "major concern is that management showed no consideration for the black population to have self-determination."

"As a result of this brazen by-passing, the Black Community has taken the position that the office is still vacant."

A Bell Labs spokesman, however, disagreed with the Black Community contention Tuesday in a telephone interview. He maintained that "Williams was selected for the position of personnel representative at Bell Labs after full consideration of a number of candidates. This is the process followed whenever vacancies occur at Bell Labs. This process is Bell Labs' Corporate Equal Employment Opportunity and affirmative action policies," he said.

The Ad Hoc committee, however, said a formal complaint protesting the appointment of Williams will be submitted to Bell Labs management not later than Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

The group said the $15,700 salary offered Bantale was less than it should have been. "The offer appears grossly out of line and seemingly ignores Bantale's extensive experience and qualifications in Affirmative Action related matters and personnel relations in general," they observed.

KEVIN LYONS...faces criminal and traffic charges

Police Nab Suspect In Store Heist

A 20-year-old Eastlake man was charged and held for the robbery of Streng's Carryout Market, 1333 Lockbourne Rd., on Monday afternoon.

Kevin Lyons, 699 Kelton Ave., was arrested by police less than ten minutes after the robbery. He has been charged with aggravated robbery and is presently being held in the City Jail.

Robbery detectives state that the suspect fled on foot from the store after taking a small amount of cash from the store's cashier, Martha Streng, 19, who was armed with a small pistol.

Upon capture, Lyons was brought back to the store to be identified by its employees. Reports reveal that he later confessed to the robbery.

After arraignment on Tuesday morning, bond was set at $10,000. Hearing has been continued to Aug. 19, when he will answer to criminal charges, along with two traffic violations for failure to yield.

Westside Dispute Leaves One Dead

A 59-year-old man was charged with killing his daughter's boyfriend in an apparent argument on the Westside Sunday. He is being held in City Prison pending his hearing.

George Herman Clark, 225 Derrer Rd., was charged with voluntary manslaughter after reportedly shooting Ollie Raymond Harper Jr., in the chest with a .22 caliber revolver. Harper, 1398 Hildreth Ave., died shortly after the shooting.

Homicide detectives report that Harper and his girlfriend, Hattie Patton, 31, 2568 Rhoads Ave., were visiting Clark Sunday afternoon when the argument began in the front yard.

During the argument, Harper threatened to beat Patton for disagreeing with him. Clark came to the aid of his daughter by pushing her inside the house and slamming the front door, leaving Harper outside trying to get in.

Upon forcing his way into the house, Harper was met by Clark, who grabbed a revolver from the stereo and fired point blank at Harper, who was standing just inside the door. Upon being shot, he stumbled outside where he died moments later on the front lawn.

Services for Harper were set for Thursday at 1:30 p.m., at the C.D. White and Son Funeral Home, 1217 Mt. Vernon Ave. He is survived by his son Chad; parents Mary Harper of Columbus, and Raymond Harper Sr. of Philadelphia; brother Michael Harper; sister Kim Harper; grandparents Mr. and Mrs. N.E.

Attorneys Oppose Federal No-Fault Auto Insurance

A delegation of Ohio attorneys, including Otto Beatty Jr., visited the Ohio delegation of the House of Representatives and the two Ohio senators on July 22 to express opposition to proposed federal no-fault auto insurance.

Beatty has, for several years, set forth the proposition that no-fault insurance is discriminatory against minorities. Recently, The CALL & POST printed a letter from the attorney to black members of the Legislature.

Since taking this position, Beatty said that there have been court decisions in New York and Illinois setting forth that no-fault auto insurance plans which take away the right to sue based on a medical threshold are unconstitutional.

has been organized by a group of local citizens, it was announced last week. The committee, according to a news release, will conduct a letter-writing campaign in an all-out effort to drum up support for legislation designed to reopen investigations of the "political assassinations" of the Kennedy's and Dr. King.

Noting that legislation already introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives has attracted 39 co-sponsors, a spokesman for the committee and the committee's initial efforts "will be to gather support for this measure."

The resolution and the Committee itself will be the topic of discussion at a public meeting, Tuesday, Aug. 19, at 8 p.m., at the Academy for Contemporary Problems, 1501 Neil Ave.

The Committee, according to the release, "espouses no theory or version of these cases (assassinations), but questions the completeness and accuracy of existing official accounts and public records."

He added: "The Committee believes that it is in the best public interest to reinvestigate with the purpose of resolving and quieting the many serious controversies, allegations, questions of fact and evidence, and theories which about relative to these assassinations."

FIRE FAILS TO DAMPEN GROUNDBREAKING SPIRIT

A recent fire in an apartment complex owned by the Housing Opportunity Center of Metropolitan Columbus, 700 Bryden Rd., apparently has not slowed or stopped rehabilitation of the building, as evident from the groundbreaking ceremonies held on Monday at 1025 Fair Ave.

According to reports from the Fire Dept., the fire started in the rear on the third floor, charring the roof section and causing seepage to the second floor. Estimated damage is $10,000.

According to Carl White, executive director of the Housing Opportunity Center, the fire was unfortunate, but will not alter the center's "intent to provide decent, safe and adequate housing in the central city."

White rejected the idea that the fire within the unoccupied structure was an act of arson. "I view it as just one of the more than 60 fires that have spread throughout the area since June," he said.

White added that the refurbishing of the building's units should be completed by the end of the year. "The proposed rehabilitation will go on as scheduled," he stated.

PAT SCOTT, model and director of Pose Enterprises, announces plans for the upcoming Bronze Miss beauty contest and pageant. Entrants should be between ages 18 and 25, never married and no children, and at least 5'5" tall. For details call 252-0803 or 252-4451. Deadline for entry is Aug. 23.

Group To Present Two Black Plays

The OSU Black Theatre Group, formerly known as The People's Theatre, will present two plays Sunday, Aug. 24.

The plays, "Happy Ending" and "Gentleman Caller," are directed by Olu Makinde, a Nigerian graduate of Ohio State's masters program in drama. Makinde is currently director of drug prevention and education at the Uhuru Family Center, 785 E. Long St.

The theatre group adopted its present name after several members of the group enrolled at Ohio State and encouraged others from the University to join.

Makinde believes that the Uhuru dancers, the OSU Black Choir, the Black Jazz Ensemble, and the Black Theatre group are capable of forming a cultural entity at Ohio State.

"Not only is there a need for black or white theatre in Columbus, but the black audience in Columbus suffers from the dire need for something on the stage," he said.

Makinde, who dislikes the purely academic theatre, added that his main intention is to take the theatre to the people in the community where there is much potential for success.

Other plays which Makinde has directed are African in origin and include "Elegbara," a dance drama depicting the Creation in Yoruba mythology, and "The Forest of 1000 Demons," written by Makinde and adapted from a Yoruba novel.

In all of his productions Makinde stresses that the concept of the union of the audience with the actors is crucial. "This way the audience fills the part of the show, forming a total environment," he expressed. "The black theatre is a ritual rather than a show. It is a repetition of everyday life."

HAL WILLIAMS

COLUMBUS ACTOR Hal Williams May Retain His 'Sanford and Son' Police Role

Columbus native Hal Williams, who appears on the "Sanford and Son" TV series and who will be co-starting in a series of his own this fall, may still retain his role of Officer Smitty on "Sanford."

This fall Williams will appear as "Lester Demott" in the comedy series "On The Rocks," which deals with life in prison. The series is scheduled for Thursday nights, 8:30 p.m. on ABC (WTVN-Ch. 6).

"Needless to say, I am very pleased and elated for this big break which I hope will boost my career tremendously," Williams said in a letter to The CALL-POST. "My status on 'Sanford' is 'iffy' at this point and perhaps it can be worked out so that I will not have to completely leave that show."

The appearance of two men in blue—one black and one white—has been a familiar sight on "Sanford" during the three and one half years the show has aired.

In the series, Williams zeros in on the antics of straight man for the wacky acts and remarks of his white partner. They usually get their share of laughs and come off rather smooth as two pretty funny guys.

But what Williams has become increasingly concerned about is the fact that even though he has done well in comedy roles through the years, few people realize he is an actor made of much heavier material than meets the eye in his many roles of light comedy.

He has a heavy theatre background which began when he was an East High school student. He was in several high school plays and he joined a local theatre group after graduation.

Williams was married April 11 to a former Columbus girl, Gay Anderson, in Las Vegas. The two saw each other for the first time in 15 years last summer in Columbus at the East High School Reunion.

Los Angeles has been Gay's home for the past 10 years where she is presently teaching school. She is also attending Loyola University Law School and will graduate at the end of this year, Williams said.

The black athletes are moving up at Ohio State University. Football has its Archie Griffin and Cornelius Greene; basketball can boast of Larry Bolden and Mark Bayless; track has two good runners in Len Willis and John Davis; baseball has Don Dungee and Warren Lewis, and now tennis has Steve Ryuse.

Who is Steve Ryuse? Ryuse is one of Ohio State's promising young black tennis players from Mt. Vernon, O. The 5-9, 150-pound freshman, who had been no higher than a state quarter-finalist in high school, earned himself a position on the Buckeye's varsity team this year.

He was making great progress on the Buck's team until a broken wrist last Thanksgiving forced him to suspend his tennis playing for a short period. However, he recuperated in time to win a varsity "O" with victories in the singles at Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio University. In the doubles, he and his partner won twice over Notre Dame.

Ryuse learned the fundamentals of tennis on the Beatty Tennis Court under the watchful eyes of Lee Townsend and other members of the Beatty Tennis Club. His parents, Mark and Diane Ryuse, would take turns hauling their son from Mt. Vernon to Beatty Center for the various practices and matches.

"He has an excellent serve and has developed real well since he started with our club's junior program a few years ago," Townsend said. "Beatty Tennis Club has started and developed many young tennis players for years," Lee added.

Lee also mentioned that Al Mathews, who won the city high school championship in 1973 for East, came up thru the Beatty Tennis Club system. Mathews was an outstanding player on the University of Cincinnati's tennis team this year.

The traveling back and forth from Mt. Vernon to Columbus didn't affect Ryuse's scholastic standing. He was one of those 141 scholar-athletes honored at the annual Student-Athlete Scholarship Recognition Banquet last April. His 3.3 scholastic average was one of the highest.

Ohio State's tennis team finished fourth in the Big Ten and had an overall record of 15-7 for the season. Their home tennis matches were played at the new Herman Wirthwein Tennis Center, located a few yards north of the football practice field. Locker and training rooms have been set aside for the players at the Ernie Biggs Athletic Facility.

The new courts were named in honor of Wirthwein who played with the Buckeyes in 1914, '15 and '16. He later coached the team from 1926-1957.

The Women at Ohio State will finally have some representation in the Athletic Dept. "The Athletic Department is seeking candidates for a new administrative position: assistant director of athletics to coordinate women's intercollegiate athletics," a spokesman reported.

There are 11 varsity sports for women on the OSU campus. At present, the job of handling women sports is assigned to Phyllis J. Bailey, associate director of recreation and intramural sports.

Women interested in applying for this new position should send their resumes to J. Edward Weaver, director of athletics at Ohio State.

The University of Southern California appointed its first female assistant athletic director last year. The job was given to 36-year-old Barbara Hedges. She is in charge of six sports: basketball, track and field, volleyball, swimming, gymnastics and tennis.

Hedges holds a master's degree in physical education from the University of Arizona, where she also did her undergraduate work. She has nine years of experience coaching women's gymnastics in high schools and colleges.

DAY CARE

Softball Integrates Sexes

Youngsters (girls and boys) are playing softball together in an organized league in Franklin County. That's right. Girls and boys from the ages of 5-12 are playing on the same teams in the "Daddy Squint" Phares Day Care Softball League organized by Pled Piper School and Summer Day Camp, in honor of the late John L. Phares.

The youngsters participate in a nine member league of day care centers which are: Castle Park, Pled Piper, I and II, Come 'N Play, Northside Day Care, Westside Day Care, Columbus Children's College, and both Kinder Care Centers.

The games are played at Pled Piper Summer Day Camp about two and one half miles north of New Albany, O.

Mary Phares, owner of the family operated Pled Piper School and Summer Day Camp, 2693 Mark Rd is providing the facility, transportation, and equipment being used by the children. Each youngster must supply a T-shirt that a stencil bearing the name of the child care center he or she represents is printed.

Gene Farrington, coordinator of the league, said the purpose of the league is to help the children's physical, mental, social and emotional development.

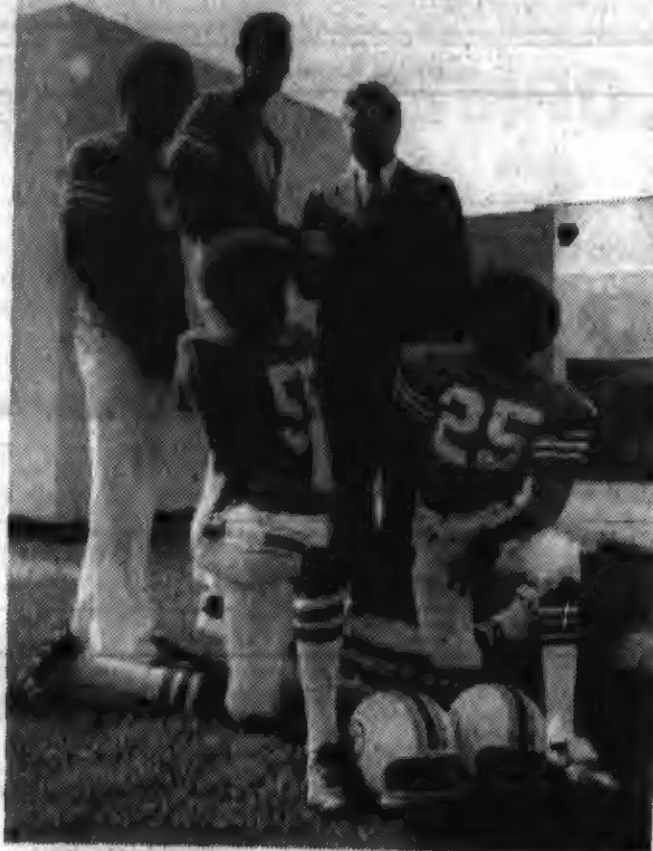

"It gives every child a chance to play organized sports, and helps each child learn the proper basic fundamentals of softball. It also offers day care children a chance to get to know one another better," said Farrington. The rules of the league vary slightly from other leagues because there are no losers or winners. Most games end deadlocked.

the fellows. But, many of the older boys play for little league baseball teams. All the youngsters are improving their game each week and no one is being forced to play, according to Farrington.

What is so impressive is the attitude of the children. There is not any animosity among the sexes and no unsportsmanlike conduct displayed. The games resemble the report of a family softball game at a picnic.

The office of Mayor Tom Moody proclaimed and recognized the league last spring "and we are waiting to receive letters of recognition from the Cincinnati Reds and Cleveland Indians baseball organization," said Farrington.

The "Daddy Squint" league is scheduled to extend through August. For further information contact Gene Farrington 478-2385.

SOUTH MIFFLIN DOLPHIN Association will enter its team, South Mifflin Dolphins, in Capital City League and Linden Lions League this season. Champions of the Linden League last year, the Dolphins are sponsored in Capital City by Beverage Management, Inc., leading bottlers of 7-Up, RC, Crush, Hawaiian Punch and other nationally known soft drinks. Presenting sponsorship check to team coaches is H.M. O'Neill Jr., president and chief executive officer of Beverage Management. From left: Donald Fountain, head coach; Bob Wallington, assistant coach; O'Neill, and two Dolphin players, Leonard Thomas and Guyless Clark. Capital City League, which pits 10 teams from across the city against each other, begins action Sunday, Sept. 7, at Mohawk Junior-Senior High School. The South Mifflin Dolphins have 30 days in training for the upcoming season.

Youth Football Teams Plentiful In Columbus

Summer youth conditioning programs on the junior high school level are not only in abundance in Columbus, but apparently just as organized as Little League baseball.

Three of the area's largest leagues include the Independent League, the YMCA junior high teams and the Catholic Diocesan. The Independent Junior Football League, formed over four years ago, presently includes 10 teams: Marion-Franklin, West, Eastmoor, Walnut Ridge, Linden, Whitehall, Brookhaven, North and Mifflin, which is tentative.

According to Mike Mileusnich, president of the league and coach of the Marion-Franklin team, the league has to follow the guidelines set by the city and the rules of the Ohio High School Athletic Association. The public schools have no responsibility for the league.

"A boy must play for the school if he lives in that area," Mileusnich said, "but most schools have two or three different high schools to choose from." Eligibility rules for the independent leagues is that the player must be 15 before Sept. 1 and there is no weight requirement as long as the boy is "big enough to play."

The major requirement which must be met is the academic eligibility. A youth is allowed to play if he receives one "F" in his schoolwork, but two "F's" during one school term makes him ineligible. Mileusnich stated that he checks with every school roster for grades three days before the season starts.

The games are usually played every Saturday, and rules in the constitution state that an admission charge for the game is the coach's prerogative, but if fees are charged they must be minimal.

Entry fees for each team is $140 per season, with the bulk of that going on new trophies and upkeep of the equipment. Mileusnich expressed that his interest in the league is primarily to teach the kids how to play football along with good sportsmanship. "I'm for the kids, 'cause they're our future."

Another summer league for youths is sponsored by the East Side YMCA. Qualifications for this league includes different weight classes and the same requirement of not being 16 before Sept. 1.

The league plays an eight game schedule, including interleague play with parochial league teams. According to Bob Steele, head football coach at East High, the purpose of the league is to prepare the kids for the high school teams.

"Many of the junior high teams operate the same types of offenses and defense patterns of the high school in that area so as to make the youths that much more advanced upon coming to the high school level," Steele said.

Weight divisions in the YMCA league include the 105 pound; 120 pound; 145 pound and the junior high

"heavyweight division."

Though Steele noted that the high schools usually receive good athletes from the lower division, one of the main problems is the lack of funds equipment, and good coaches, along with lack of awareness of the league at Champion and Franklin Junior High Schools.

Rules, league divisions and qualifications are somewhat complicated for the Diocesan Recreation program, which is divided into a varsity league and a reserve league.

To qualify for the varsity league which consists of mostly seventh and eighth graders, a youth must be at least 13, but cannot turn 15 before Sept. 1. The Reserve League is for fifth, sixth, and seventh graders who must be under 85 pounds and cannot turn 13 before Sept. 1.

Varsity League players must abide by a stripper rule which states that boys over 118 pounds must play a line position. There are 25 teams in the league, divided into A, B, and C divisions.

Diocesan Dir. of Athletics Jeffrey Schwartz reported that the Catholic leagues also abide by rules set by the Ohio High School Association. Another stipulation mentioned is the area rule.

"A youth has to play for his parish team if he has one. Also, you don't have to go to Catholic school as long as you live in the area and are Catholic." He added that there are no academic guidelines set by the league, though the individual parish may set up its own rules regarding eligibility.

Expenses for each team includes $30 league fees and $25 association fees for the entire year. Parish fields are used and coaches participate on a voluntary basis. Schwartz added that each youth must submit insurance forms, and all fifth graders who want to play must fill out special permission forms signed by their parents and parish head.

Entry fees for each team is $140 per season, with the bulk of that going on new trophies and upkeep of the equipment. Mileusnich expressed that his interest in the league is primarily to teach the kids how to play football along with good sportsmanship. "I'm for the kids, 'cause they're our future."

GOOD MORNING JUDGE

The Aug. 14 docket is just another day for criminal court judges set to hear and pass sentences on an assortment of charges ranging from petty theft to aggravated burglary.

Speaking of the latter count, Leon Vaughn, 20, 3296 E. Cleveland Ave., was charged with attempted aggravated burglary for trying to break into 773 Riverview Dr. on June 6. Upon his arrest at 11th and Summit St. he was hit with another charge for illegal possession of an instrument after police found a 40 unit plastic syringe in his sock. Vaughn has been convicted of previous charges for possession of barbiturates and hallucinogens.

An APB (all points bulletin) and a warrant has been issued for a 37 year old St. Alban, W. Va., man wanted for robbery in that state. The man Mitchell Dale Kent, is charged with being a fugitive from justice. Clarence Pierce Jr., 23, will take time to explain if the charges of grand theft against him is true. The Cleveland native reportedly took a watch valued at $210 from Lazarus on Aug. 7.

Delphina Carlisle, 27, of Newark, O., will approach the bench to plead to forgery charges. The records state that she signed a check for $343 payable to Wood Masters, Inc. To top things off, she was booked for receiving stolen property after reportedly having four other checks belonging to Wood Masters.

Rodney McIntyre, 390 Broad Meadows Blvd. Apt. 201, will make an appearance before the bench to discuss a breaking and entering charge against him. The 18 year old suspect was seen by police holding bottles while coming from inside the Lynn Drug Co. 4337 Cleveland Ave. Upon being stopped by police for a traffic violation on Cleveland Ave., 38 year old Jessie Burnette, 1008 E. 10th Ave. was slapped with a carrying a concealed weapon charge. Police records state that a .25 caliber automatic pistol loaded with seven shells was found in the car. For allegedly having sex with a 14 year old girl, James Berry, 18, 471 Blenheim Rd., will see what the judge has to say about his corruption of a minor charge.

For offering Officer F. Raver a "blow job for $75," Jill Elaine Smith, 740 Malvern Ave., was "hooked" with a soliciting charge. The 20 year old woman was also booked with a falsification charge after giving the bogus name, Arlene Bowen, to police.

Forgery is the charge facing Armon Hayes, 795 Seymour Ave., when he enters the courtroom on Thursday. The 19 year old youth is accused of signing the name "George Anrak" to a check for $221 at Huntington National Bank. Twenty-seven year old Walter Kenneth Davis, 1222 Sycamore St., won't be trespassing when he enters the courtroom to face criminal trespassing charges filed against him for refusing to leave the premises at 111 E. Town St.

Marty Conn, 829 Summit St., may be "howling mad" if convicted of harboring noisy animals. Neighbors filed charges against the 19 year old 300 pound woman because the dogs constantly barked throughout the day and night. The judge's sentence against Duane Racle 18 may not be as petty as the petty theft charge the New Albany, O., native faces for allegedly stealing three albums from Lazarus on Feb. 8.

Phyllis Jean Ross, 26, has an obligation to the court to answer grand theft charges. Ross, 1505 Parsons Ave., is said to have swiped $214 worth of stereo and radio merchandise from the Gold Circle store on Aug. 8. On an identical charge, 19 year old Ronald Barker, 207 S. Harris Ave., is accused of taking a 1965 Volkswagen which belonged to James Tracy.

To round off the Aug. 14 docket, an Eastside couple will make an appearance in the courtroom to explain similar charges against them. Gary Lee Moore 22, and Patricia Ann Moore, 18, both of 1356 E. Main St., were charged with keeping a house for narcotics, possession for sale of narcotics, and illegal possession of instruments. Police found a hypo syringe and morphine in the Moores' apartment. The possession of instruments charge is the second offense against Gary Moore.

Friday's docket is slated with similar cases as Thursday, but with more depth in the number of assault cases. George Eastman, 1369 Loretta Ave., will receive justice in the form of the judge's sentence for his reported obstructing of justice. Eastman, 47, is accused of leaving the scene of a hit and run accident at Dresden St. and Hudson Ave. He was also docketed with a traffic citation for the vehicle left while turning north on Dresden.

Judge Golden will hear the continued case of assault against Robert James, 2190 Agler Rd. The 37 year old man was sentenced to serve enforcement time in the city workhouse. Russell Maynard, 33, will see what the judge has to say about his aggravated burglary charge for trespassing at 1805 Parsons Ave. He was also hit with a rape charge for the reported sexual molesting of a woman who was present during his heist attempt.

Fifty-seven year old Emanuel Sanders, 149 E. Long St., is scheduled to answer for his failure to appear twice before Judge Pearson for enforcement charges of his fine and city workhouse penalty. Sanders was found guilty on June 18 of reckless operation of a motor vehicle and on June 13 for driving without a license. Joseph Fisher, 809 Ohio Ave., will hear the judge's wrath for violating two year probation for failure to pay his enforcement fine of $425 and court costs. The 19 year old parolee was convicted of assault for hitting William Barbee in the nose.

Andrew Carter, 1318 Fair Ave., involved in a recent gambling raid, will approach the bench on his 18th gambling charge. Carter, 49, has also held a previous conviction for operating a gambling house at the same 1108 E. Main St. address where the recent bust took place. Lacy B. Smith, 204 E. Blake Ave., will plead innocent or guilty to assault for the reported fistcuffing he administered to Shelby Smith, who suffered a broken nose and split lip from the incident.

Elizabeth Castle, 37, 2261 W. Broad St., faces a felonious assault charge for trying to hit Dovie Castle, with a 1970 Ford. Twenty-nine year old Franklin Bonner, 3319 Sundale Rd., has an appointment with the judge on a resisting arrest charge. Bonner is said to have hollered obscenities at police and running after told to remove his hands from his pocket. A 19 year old minor was booked for purchasing intoxicating liquor at Kelly's Bar, 954 W. Broad St. On top of that, the youth, Charles Rush, 67 Hawkes Ave., was slapped with another charge for buying intoxicating liquor for another minor.

Earl Smith Jr., 1370 N. Fifth St., will see the judge about a dog. Smith, 44, was slated with failure to immunize his four month old Mixed shepherd; failure to license the dog, and failure to control the dog. John Newland Jr., 289 Powell Ave., may be in for double trouble if convicted of two counts of assault. Newland, 43, reportedly struck Carol Cox and Ruth Newman on Aug. 8.

Rachel Morrison, 1306 Atchison St., will answer to charges of bad checks and petty theft. Court records state that Morrison, 22, wrote a $43 bogus check to Gold Circle and was apprehended with $33 worth of clothing and health aids on Aug. 5.

Marcella Ewing, 39, and Michael Ewing, 21, both of 1063 E. 17th Ave., were charged with assault and will step to the bench to hear their respective enforcement verdicts. Ms. Ewing was found guilty of the charge on July 22 for striking Charlotte Ingram in the face, cutting her eye and breaking her glasses. She was fined $200 plus court costs. Michael Ewing, also found guilty of the July 22, count for hitting Dan Weber in the nose and mouth, was fined $400 and court costs.

Meanwhile, the judge will be "assaulted" with another assault case when Aubrey (Chico) Moreno, 971 Bryden Rd., 31, enters the courtroom. Rounding out the assault cases will be the charge against Daniel Mason 31; Mason, 323 Chittenden Ave., will cop a plea for reportedly causing harm to Charles Wheeler.

IT'S FOUR-IN-A-ROW FOR 'BEV' WOODFORD

One of the best ways of indicating a true champion is to look at consistency. To be consistent means to perform at a given level on a regular basis. One need only to look in the area of competitive athletics to see how excellence is tied to consistency. In horse racing the horse who wins the triple crown is considered the best. And in the field of professional golf the golfer who wins the triple crown is also considered the best.

Another example of consistency in competitive athletics is the "win streak." Consider UCLA and its 70-plus consecutive victories, or the Miami Dolphins and their 18 consecutive wins, or the Cincinnati Reds and their 10 straight victories enroute to the National League crown during the current season. Certainly these examples demonstrate that consistency produces champions. And this is the case with Harris Realty's "Saleslady of the Month," "Bev" Woodford. "Bev" has topped sales production for the company for the fourth consecutive month. If you are in the market to buy or sell property call on a real champion in "Bev" Woodford at 235-9118, 235-4923 or 258-9537.

Busing--A Last Resort

Out of the experiences of the past ten years, the nation's educators are learning that the job of bringing students of differing races together goes much beyond mixing them in classes.

They have also learned that when integration is achieved through court-ordered massive busing of pupils, varying degrees of social polarization almost inevitably occurs. Nevertheless even if there is no socialization, or a minimum of it, in newly integrated schools, the laws of this country must be respected and the laws say that the schools must be integrated.

At the same time, desegregation plans, court ordered or volunteer, must be based on common sense realities, and different formulas will have to be used in different localities and differing situations.

Which brings us to the impending confrontation between the Cleveland Board of Education and the Cleveland Branch NAACP, scheduled to be heard on October 7 before U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti. In this lawsuit, the NAACP contends that Cleveland schools are segregated because of actions by school officials and that Cleveland should be ordered to prepare a desegregation plan.

On the other side of the coin, the Cleveland Board of Education, in defense, will contend that, within the limits imposed by a segregated and stratified pattern of housing, it has shown good faith in the quest for quality education, by doing those things within its power to correct any past abuses that might have been perpetrated by former school boards in other years prior to the Supreme Court's historic order for desegregation.

In contending that if permitted without judicial restraint, to continue its positive program of attacking the evils of segregation, it could achieve far more, the Cleveland officials are expected to offer some impressive steps made in recent years, while avoiding the last resort of cross-town busing.

Among these steps, admittedly, have been the integration of administrative and teaching staffs; integration of black and white children in special education programs; the establishment of city-wide courses in ethnic and black studies, and some impressive building of new schools both inside and outside the traditionally segregated ghettos.

Ordinarily, a ruling by the courts for massive cross-town busing has been reserved for those communities where the mood of the school administrators is well defined as obstructionist, in short educational a-o-b-s.

Often, the NAACP suits have been aimed at just such die-hards, and because all efforts at conciliation and cooperation have been futile. Thus most of the suits have been the result of what might be called "frustration politics."

Those who are frustrated, who feel they cannot cure an intolerable situation through other channels, turn on those who visibly represent "the enemy," and those who operate our schools are relatively easy targets.

While the NAACP suit against Cleveland schools does not fall into such an extreme category, these frustration efforts, over the past ten years or so, have resulted in such demands as:

Get rid of all white teachers in the ghetto.

Employ only Negro principals in the ghetto.

Win the right to establish curriculum in ghetto schools.

Take over the ghetto schools completely, and destroy all central control over urban school systems.

The fallacy here, is that if Negroes could accomplish these extremes, so could any other well-organized minority group.

Thus, it would appear that there is room for agreement between the educators and the NAACP for effective joint action in speeding up the further integration of the Cleveland system, while launching a cooperative attack against the root cause of school segregation -- the continuing pattern of housing segregation.

It is even more compelling to eradicate the ghetto, than to eradicate the segregation for which it is responsible. Educators for the most part have been guilty of trying to meet the demands of activists with a series of gimmicks: busing, decentralization, special programs, and the like.

Sooner or later, they and their critics, must come to understand that unless there is a master plan to cover housing, jobs, and health, every plan for the schools will fail on its face. No piecemeal strategy can work.

To conceive and finance such a Master plan, there must be a diversion of state and federal funds simultaneously to schools, housing, jobs and health, to the end objective of eradicating the ghetto.

Which offers, we believe an opportunity for plaintiffs and defendants in the current desegregation suit, to cooperate in a more meaningful use of the expense and energies involved in the court action now impending.

DOWN THE BIG ROAD BY WILLIAM O. WALKER

The Lull Before The Storm

The dog-days of August are always the times when people are rushing to complete their vacations; while parents at the same time are busy getting their children ready for school, and in between times trying to keep cool despite the hot summer heat.

Therefore, people's minds and energies are distracted by many things. Time however, does not stop. Before we realize it, important events and decisions will be upon us.

Not the least of these will be this year's municipal elections. This year these elections will be of special interest to our people in Cleveland and Columbus, for, in these two Ohio cities, Negro candidates will be running for mayor.

Dr. John Rosemond has already won the Democratic nomination for mayor in Columbus. His victory confirmed the fact that when Black voters unite, they can wield a big political stick.

In Cleveland, the non-partisan primaries will not be held until September 30th. Arnold Pinkney, president of the Cleveland Board of Education is running for the second time for mayor. On the basis of the performance charts, Pinkney should win the nomination.

The intervening days before Cleveland's primary and Columbus' general election, there must be determined, coordinated efforts made to register the thousands of our people who are not as yet on the voters list.

This large group of eligible, but unregistered people, is our greatest weakness. Despite all the campaigns conducted in the last ten years, there are still over 50% of our people unregistered.

Then, another big problem is getting those who are registered to vote. We just do not realize the importance of the ballot. The civil rights movement would have many more achievements if only we could get our people to vote.

In the Columbus primary in which Dr. Rosemond won the Democratic election, he got 72% of his votes in the Black wards. However, Dr. Rosemond got only 53% of the votes cast in the Black wards. The thing that possibly helped Dr. Rosemond the most was the fact that only 40% of the white vote turned out.

These statistics indicate where our problem lies. In the first place, Dr. Rosemond should have gotten more than 53% of the votes cast in the Black wards. This bare majority shows how many of our people are still members of the "ain't ready yet club." They ain't ready for civil rights; they ain't ready for Black progress; in fact they ain't ready for nothing but welfare and relief. Some of the smallest election day turn-outs, are in the voting areas having the largest number of our people on the various welfare programs. Yet these same dependent people have to rely more on elected public officials than anyone else. They should always be the first ones in line on every election day.

The fate of Arnold Pinkney is yet to be decided. He won the nomination the last time, but lost in the general election. He should win the Democratic nomination this year. The size of the Negro vote in Cleveland should almost assure him of the nomination.

Granted that by luck and a greater interest in voting by Negroes, Arnold Pinkney is nominated, we will then have Negro candidates on the Democratic ticket in both of Ohio's largest cities, Cleveland and Columbus.

This will be a real challenge to the Black voters in these two cities. Both candidates are highly qualified. Both have more than paid their membership dues in their party. Both deserve the full support of their parties. Whether they get this support, is the responsibility of Black leaders in the Democratic party.

Cleveland has far more Black Democrats holding elective offices than Columbus. Therefore, these Black elected officials could if they would, force their party to support Pinkney.

Whether this happens, remains to be seen. Here are the persons in Cleveland this responsibility rests on: Judges: Leo Jackson, Lloyd O. Brown, George W. White, Theodore Williams, Clarence L. Gaines.

Legislators: M. Morris Jackson, Troy Lee James, Thomas M. Bell, Ike Thompson, John D. Thompson.

With the exception of possibly three judges, every one of these Democratic office holders can be elected without the endorsement of their party. Therefore, they can dictate to the party leaders with no fear of retaliation. On the courage and guts of these men, rests Arnold Pinkney's fate.

In Columbus, they have very few Black elected officials. But their political clout rests with the big number of Black voters.

The spotlight of interest therefore this year will be on the Black voters of Cleveland and Columbus. It will be a terrible setback for Black progress if we fail.

OSU Appointments

Seen As Bid To

Appease Student Demands

By CYNTHIA DONALDSON
Guest Columnist

The acting chairman of the All-African Student and Faculty Union (AASFU), a black student organization on the Ohio State University campus, considers the administration's appointments of a black vice president and a departmental chairman attempts to pacify black students.

Shabaka Lewis, a junior from Cincinnati and acting chairman, also claimed the administration made the appointments because of pressure from AASFU.

The group presented a list of demands to OSU President Harold L. Egan during a demonstration May 21.

The demands included appointments of a black vice president, a black associate or assistant dean in every department or college, an examination of University affirmative action policies and increased financial assistance to black students.

Robert J. Stull, OSU professor of art, became the school's second black department head when he became acting chairman of the University Division of Art July 1.

Madison H. Scott, OSU affirmative action officer and associate vice president for personnel services, became the University's first black vice president July 11 when he was appointed to that post for personnel services.

"I consider these moves to be used to pacify us," Lewis said. "The appointments were announced in such a way people were unable to quickly identify that they came from student pressure, but we know that they did."

William J. Holloway, vice provost for minority affairs, maintained, "They were always going to be moved by criticism, pressure or demands," but now we're getting some progress and there was none before, no appointments, no anything."

Frank W. Hale, black associate dean for the Graduate School, said the action taken by the University administration "looks a little more than coincidental."

"A University that has been in existence as long as this one has always said, 'this is part of our plan,'" he said. "They're trying to save face."

University Provost Albert J. Kuhn said the administration was influenced but not "pressured" by the black demands.

"Everyone, including all blacks, would be hurt if people were selected not on merit but because of pressure groups," Kuhn explained.

He said the appointments of Stull and Scott were part of a decision to intensify the University's efforts in affirmative action and "that happened to be two qualified blacks on hand at the time."

Lewis said AASFU was happy to see a black vice president at Ohio State but said compared to the other demands the student organization presented, it was not as important.

"As far as the other demands go, the ones done were the least important," he maintained.

He referred to the areas of affirmative action and financial aid as well as increased funding for the Office of Minority Affairs for recruitment of blacks and a black cultural center as needing attention.

However, the University has already acted gingerly on two demands AASFU presented. Selection of a University commission on women and minorities to study affirmative action policies will soon be announced.

Also, $200,000 was set aside by the OSU Board of Trustees July 11 to assist minorities entering the professional schools this fall.

Holloway said the commission may result in "major changes" at Ohio State if "strong" people are appointed as members. He said the administration's decision to have a commission is "a backhanded way of saying all the criticism we had of affirmative action last year was valid."

Lewis said AASFU was wary of the administration's attempt to make concessions.

"We knew we would pick up a lot of concessions along the way, but we said that wouldn't stop us," he said. "We're not going to allow these moves to pacify us. We plan to continue pressuring the administration to make sure our demands are met, all of them."

He said Kujenga Ashe, chairman of AASFU, has been asked to serve on the commission on women and minorities.

Lewis is acting as chairman and spokesman for AASFU while Ashe prepares to enter law school Autumn Quarter.

Bicentennial: So What!

Admonitions and doubts about the Bicentennial have been expressed by black leaders, writers and various segments of the black community. There are those who even suggest adamantly that blacks should not celebrate the Bicentennial. It is a farce; it is nothing but a charade, some say.

Lerone Bennett Jr., in the August, 1975, issue of Ebony is one of those urging us not to be a part of the Bicentennial celebration.

He says, "There are two reasons why we should not lend ourselves to this charade. The first is that 200 years have passed and we're not free, and that calls for mourning and struggle, not celebration. The second reason is that we're never going to have any freedom to celebrate if we don't seize every opportunity to remind white Americans that we are not free."

Bennett, even more powerfully stated, "We have no need to celebrate. We need to defend the interests of freedom. We need to call for national repentance and national action."

Vernon Jordan, national director of the Urban League, has also expressed doubts about black participation in the celebration of the Bicentennial. Jordan spoke at Rev. Ralph Abernathy's church in Atlanta, Ga., just recently.

In referring to the Bicentennial, Jordan said that reenacting the battles of Lexington and Concord and middle-aged men parading around in three-cornered hats is not his idea of a Bicentennial celebration. Jordan said we must undo what 200 years has done to black people.

Perhaps the position that most of us take is somewhere between Jordan's and Bennett's stand. I do not mean to ignore Dr. Joseph H. Jackson's arguments in favor of blacks celebrating the Bicentennial. Dr. Jackson is president of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc.

It is my thought, however, that most blacks will observe the Bicentennial with great reservation and are apt to make a critical assessment of these 200 years and insist that the real truth of these 200 years be told.

Jordan says in the Special August issue of Ebony, "A constructive black presence in the Bicentennial is necessary to insure that what might otherwise be a meaningless, commercialized celebration of mythology became a look backward to the past for insights and ideas that can be brought to bear on present problems."

I could not totally disagree with Vernon Jordan's statement about the past bringing to bear insights about our future, but I rather a spongy, rhetorical statement.

My God, we've been doing this everyday. I don't think there has been a day that has gone by that we black folks haven't told white folks about the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, the Preamble to the Constitution, and everything they have ever declared, proclaimed, hypocritically, about freedom, justice and equality.

What more have we got to tell them? I think Lerone Bennett Jr. is absolutely right. We have no "need" to celebrate. Notice, he said "need."

What is needed, Bennett says, is national repentance and national action to overcome what 200 years of oppression has done to us. If we do participate in the Bicentennial we are going to do it on the following basis:

1. Tell the truth and get rid of those damn lies about the founding fathers, i.e., Jefferson, Washington and the whole bunch.

2. Tell the truth and get rid of those racist myths about us: our intelligence, our family life, our culture.

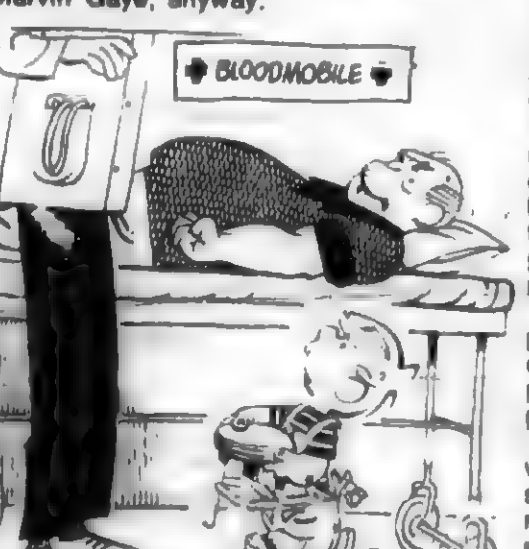

3. Demand that America and all of her institutions repent of her injustices and take immediate action to correct and repair the damages against the social and psychological economic development of black people in America.

4. Recognize the true story of how America developed with the creativity and genius of black people in the shaping of America, i.e., Nat Turner, Harriet Tubman, Frederick Douglass, W.E. B. DuBois, Marcus Garvey, etc.

We can certainly add to that list of demands. These are just a few of the things I can think of right now. But if we cannot participate in the Bicentennial on the above basis, to hell with the Bicentennial.

We'll create a national Bicentennial of our own that is one of renewing our struggle against a racist America and laugh at those clowns parading around in three-cornered hats playing drums and blowing little flutes.

I'd rather listen to Aretha Franklin and Marvin Gaye, anyway.

A Ford In Your Future

President Ford has just completed a trip into the lion's den of European politics and diplomacy. It is to his credit that he returned to the Oval Office without losing either more of his thinning hair or his shirt.

The big event of the trip was a Summit Conference in Helsinki, where, after exchanging smiles and handshakes with Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev, he signed a document that, in effect, ratified the postwar division of Europe, which was more of a triumph for the Soviets than for anybody else.

The President, otherwise, had a good time during his ten-day, 13,200 mile junket through Europe, which included stops, handshakes, speeches and some baby-kissing in Poland, Romania, West Germany and Yugoslavia. His visit to the Auschwitz concentration camp, where the Nazi's slaughtered an estimated four million Jews in gas chambers or through forced labor, gave him an opportunity to make a suitable political gesture to American Jews, and by and large proved that our President, though probably outwitted by European slicks, was capable of reasonable articulation and more diplomatic polish than his critics have up to now been willing to accord him.

Domestically, however, President Ford was taking some lumps--from the Congress, who in his absence, at last screwed up enough gumption to override his veto of their $2 billion health bill, and voted to extend controls on oil prices in defiance of Ford's fight to remove such controls.

Black Americans, however, have seen little evidence, either pro or con, of Ford's deep-seated attitude towards social and civil rights programs. Many were bolstered in hope when he expressed his desire to see a meaningful federal work-projects bill enacted, to provide jobs, instead of welfare for the better than 9 million unemployed. But, it seems that this proposition no longer holds high priority on the Ford domestic agenda. Like his predecessor, Richard Nixon, Ford apparently believes that we have to stand for continued unemployment as a hedge against the even-more-feared inflation.

This is ironic, however, since his proposal to remove controls from domestic oil, is bound to skyrocket the price of gasoline, and all and sundry by-products of same.

Evidently, Ford's advisors have convinced him that the majority of his constituents, are in agreement with his formula for conserving energy. And the stupidity and fragmentation in the Democratic-controlled Congress has made him look like a sage by comparison.

Looking toward the 1978 presidential elections, Ford holds most of the winning cards. Despite many significant boo boos during his first year in office, he has managed to emerge as "Mister Clean," and while nobody is completely satisfied with his overall performance, they are willing to concede that he is a 100 percent improvement over Richard Nixon, and has done much to wipe out the stigma of Watergate from the GOP bailiwick.

And, he is obviously running like mad for reelection, while the Democrats are sharpening their knives for each other, rather than concentrating on the man who almost inevitably will be the Republican standard-bearer in '76.

With Ted Kennedy now definitely out of the picture, the Democrats are well on their way, barring a miracle, of blowing the best chance in this decade of recapturing the White House.

Unless a miracle occurs, then, let's be prepared for a Ford in our future after 1976.

CHOO-CHOO

We're gonna get a choo-choo train if Amtrak has its way. An' if we fix some twisted tracks The trains are here to stay. The coaches may be second-hand An' fare a little higher. But when a firm is busted It's tough to find a buyer.

But never fear, the tennie courts Will still remain intact. The trains will skip the Terminal An' find themselves some other track. There's just a teeny-weeny chance That Amtrak might succeed. With gasoline up out of sight A change is what we need.

But don't expect no parlor cars Or movies on a screen. You gonna get some services But they'll be mighty lean. I think I'm gonna wait a while Until they set the fare. An' I'll make a trip or two I'm gonna do my miles by air.

Cures For Insomnia

Insomnia, a more or less chronic sleep disturbance, cannot be cured with pills, dark curtains, sheep-counting or other such devices, a California psychiatrist contends. Although some insomniacs respond well to mild tranquilizers, psychotherapy and anti-depressant drugs, other measures should also be tried.

Among those listed in a paper presented at a meeting of the Hollywood Academy of Medicine were increased daytime exercise, regular bedtime schedule, pre-dinner relaxation, "regular and satisfying coitus," and a ban on naps and caffeine after mid-day.

110 chairman; Christine Franklin, ticket co-chairman; Mary Johnson, Ebony Fashion Fair chairman; Kathy Wehrich, publicity co-chairman; Esther Safford, ticket chairman and Mary Price, Twig 110 co-chairman and Ebony Fashion Fair publicity chairman. Members not pictured are Kay West and Pat Baum. The Fair will be held Sunday, September 14 at 8:30 p.m. at Merston Auditorium on the OSU campus.

Natural Feeling Theme Ebony Fashion Fair

It's a good fashion season for clothes wear. Clothes are designed to be worn with ease—not only to look good but to make you feel good wearing them.

For Fall '75, designers seem to be giving us new options by emphasizing natural, unconstructed, soft, easy lines that make you feel just great to wear the new look.

And this new look will be exhibited Sunday, Sept. 14, at 8:30 p.m. in Merston Auditorium on the Ohio State University campus, when Children's Hospital Twig 110 presents its annual Ebony Fashion Fair.

All proceeds from the fashionable event will be presented to Children's Hospital. Tickets are on sale at the Central Ticket Office, and Merston ticket office, 30 W. 15th Ave.

Also, all Twig 110 members are selling tickets and additional information may be obtained by calling Esther Safford, ticket chairman, at 253-3802, or Christine Franklin, ticket co-chairman, at 252-1812.

American Airline has donated a vacation for two for one week in Acapulco, Mexico as a door prize.

Ticket prices are $10 per person. A subscription to Ebony or Jet magazine is included in the price. Student tickets may be obtained for $5; they will receive a six-month subscription to Ebony.

The first Ebony Fashion Fair was produced in 1958. In its infancy, it was shown in a few key cities and was planned mainly for the purpose of featuring some of the loveliest black models in creations by world-famous designers.

However, the elegance of the shows caught the interest of the fashion-conscious public and its highly favorable reception prompted additional shows as interest and attendance increased.

Produced and directed by Mrs. Eunice W. Johnson, wife of Ebony/Jet publisher John H. Johnson, the collection of some 200 garments modeled in the Ebony Fashion Fair is personally selected by Mrs. Johnson.

In addition such leading couturiers as Balmain, St. Laurent, Cardin, Marc Bohan for Christian Dior, Guy Laroche, Calvin Klein, Missoni and Basile, Mrs. Johnson has selected outstanding creations from leading black designers Jack Fuller for Nuanetsi, James Daugherty, Willi Smith, Stephen Burrows and Scott Barrie for Barri Sports.

There are many ethnic looks in this year's designs, including Oriental, Russian and Arabian. Colors are soft as the fabrics. The muted colors are obtained by adding gray to brighter tones such as gray-blue, gray-beige, gray-wine as well as pink beige.

Clothes are molded to the body and move simultaneously with each step, making it a "must" to get your figure in shape.

The length this year is your choice. Most designers are showing below to above the ankle, with fabrics particularly natural and luxurious. The newest colors are raisin, grape and wine tones such as Sherry, Chablis, Cognac and Bordeaux.

Fashion Forecast: It's definitely the most feminine fashion year ever and we owe it to ourselves to make the most of it! Twig 110 first sponsored the Ebony Fashion Fair in 1958 and presented it bi-annually until numerous requests from the public influenced them to present the show on an annual basis.

The purpose of the Twigs is to raise money for and be of service to Children's Hospital. The group was formally organized in 1959.

Twig 110's first monetary contribution to the hospital was $500 in 1958. Since then the group has averaged approximately $2,000 per year.

The profits from all of their fundraising projects are turned over intact to the hospital; none of the funds are used for social or personal purposes.

DENIES SOVIET PACT

PARIS - (NBNS) - The Somali embassy here issued a communique saying that the development of the port of Berbera is intended to promote the country's economic progress, not to prepare for the establishment of a Soviet military base.

The communique reiterated earlier Somali denials of U.S. Defense Secretary James Schlesinger's assertion that the Soviets were building a missile base near Berbera. The communique accused the Ford administration of launching a "slandering campaign" against Somalia.

Turner Offspring Welcome Addition To Medical Field

There's a new physician in town. Well, we can't say that. Dr. John (Jackie) Turner is new to Columbus, because he was born and bred here. To be exact, "Dr. Jackie" is new to the medical profession after taking the Oath of Hippocrates and receiving his M.D. degree from Ohio State University College of Medicine last June.

It will be some time before "Dr. Jackie" has private practice of his own because he has been accepted as a resident by the OSU Dept. of Neurological Surgery and it will take a

Joe And Alberta Lyman Holiday In Europe For years now, Joe and Alberta Lyman have gone back and forth to New York and Las Vegas, Nev., just as some of us go to the supermarket. This summer their travel plans included Europe, and like all European travelers, they have many delightful stories to tell.

The Lyman's itinerary included the French Riviera and Interlaken, Switzerland, and a cable car ride up the Jung Fra Region, which is about 13,000 above sea level and everything else, according to Joe.

A RECEPTION was held on Aug. 10 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Luckey, on the ends, to introduce Mr. and Mrs. Donald Seger, center, to the Columbus community.

Seger was recently named director of Columbus Public Libraries. He held a similar position in Mobile, Ala., before coming to Columbus. Mrs. Luckey is a trustee of the library.

how it came about that he was accepted as a resident at one of the best neurosurgery departments in the country.

Instead, I called Margaret Hopkins Hines, Ph.D., and the first woman to ever receive the "Professor of the Year" award. Dr. Hines was most enthusiastic as she told me that before a person could become a resident in the OSU college of Medicine it was necessary to fill out an application, undergo a rigorous interview, and receive letters of recommendation from the faculty with whom the student had worked and a letter from the Dean of Students of the College of Medicine.

Jackie's parents, John and Alberta Turner, climaxed the milestone in Jackie's academic and medical career by inviting friends to join them in a champagne sip at their home.

It was a marvelous evening for the Turners and especially for those friends of his parents who have known Jackie since diaper days. Of course, the fact that Jackie has achieved so much and plans to achieve even more, surprised none. Both of his parents enjoyed extensive success during their professional careers and neither of them is a stranger in social and civic circles of Columbus.

because the parties are on. On Sunday, there will be a 19th Hole party that will last until the dinner-dance begins at 8 p.m. The dinner-dance is officially over at 1:30 a.m. but you can't expect a person to hit the sack at such an early hour and neither does the T.O. Tees Social Committee.

There will be nightcaps aplenty in the club's hospitality suit right there at the Ramada Inn-East until no telling what time.

Through sheer fortitude and maybe a few miracles, persons participating in the tournament will make it to the golf course on Sunday morning to continue the competition. Then along about 3 p.m. on Sunday afternoon, a second 19th Hole party will get underway. This party will end when the well stocked bar is depleted.

Thomas Larry, chairman of T.O. Tees Tournament Committee, has a big job ahead of him because tournament time is almost here. Of course, his task will be made easier by Brown Edwards, Eugene Calloway, Larry Jackson, Pauline Puckett, Myron Colman and George Bynum, also members of the Tournament Committee.

Most golfers, and for sure all of their friends, can tell you that there's more to a golf tournament than playing the game. 'SCHOOLS' ANNUAL REPORT SENT TO 50,000 PARENTS

An eight-page annual report has been mailed from the Columbus Public Schools to all parents in the school system.

The report went to 50,000 parents, a number substantially lower than the 90,000-plus number of students in the system because the mailing list was culled to avoid sending duplicate copies to parents with more than one child in the system.

Entitled "Gaining Ground," the report reviews the major developments of the year, leading off with gains in achievement scores by Columbus students.

Integration efforts and financial concerns are other main topics covered in the report.

Bicentennial Chmn. Resigns

WASHINGTON - (NBNS) - James O. Gibson, chairman of the D.C. Bicentennial Commission, said he is resigning because of Mayor Walter E. Washington's failure to provide adequate leadership and funding for the city's planned Bicentennial commemoration.

The Bicentennial is at a standstill, Gibson said. "There has not been adequate support from the mayor's administration. There is no staff in city hall working on economic development in connection with the Bicentennial."

His resignation, which will take effect when the mayor appoints a successor, follows that of the mayor's chief Bicentennial administrator James P. Alexander in March. At that time, Alexander cited lack of city, federal and business support for the city's Bicentennial programs.

DROP US A POSTCARD!

This summer's warm weather has caused an overwhelming number of inquiries about high electric bills and has made it very difficult for you to reach us by phone.

We don't want you to wait any longer than needed so we suggest that if you are calling to establish service at a new address or are moving from one service address to another, send us a postcard or letter instead.

Tell us:

1. where you are moving from and to...
2. when you are moving...
3. and most important... your name and telephone number so we can call you if we have questions.

If you must get an immediate answer to a question try to call before 10 a.m. or after 3 p.m.

We want to discuss bill problems with you but there has been so many calls lately that our phones have been tied up nine hours a day. As a result you get frustrated because you are kept waiting and we get a bad image.

Help us help you by sending a postcard or letter... or call before 10 a.m. and after 3 p.m.

The One-Minute Thank You. 36¢ or less.

Cyndy!

Leslie!

You're really terrific. Every year you remember my birthday.

How could I forget the best neighbor I ever had?

I wish we were neighbors again. It's been eighteen years, and I miss you just as much as the day you left Ohio.

Well, you know how much we miss you.

We really had some great times back then.

That's for sure. Just talking to you brings back a lot of memories. I'm glad you called.

Me too. Take care now, and thanks again.

You bet, bye-bye.

A one-minute out-of-state long distance call can mean so much, and it costs so little.

After 5 pm, a one-minute out-of-state direct-dialed call is only 36¢ or less.

Why, compared to writing and sending a letter, it's faster, easier and so much more personal.

Of course, if you want to say more than thank you, it's even a better bargain. Because each additional minute is less. Making a 10-minute visit as far as California just $2.70, plus tax — it's even less after 11 pm, all-day Saturday and until 5 pm Sunday.

So keep our handy After-Five Calling Card handy. For saying thank you. Or get well. Or happy birthday. Or anything.

Dial direct rates apply on all interstate calls (excluding Alaska) completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where dial direct facilities are not available. For dial direct rates to Hawaii, check your operator. Dial direct rates do not apply in person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number, because an operator must assist on such calls.

The After-Five Out-Of-State Calling Card.

Maximum direct-dialed out-of-state rates for calls made without the operator's help, Sunday-Friday, 5-11 PM.
